welcome

Welcome to CHEA's 40th Annual Parenting & Homeschool Convention! All of us at CHEA are thrilled you are here! We understand the commitment it takes to make time in your busy schedules to attend. Our prayer is that you will be strengthened in your conviction to home-educate and that the Lord will lead and guide you in the direction, upbringing, and discipleship of your children.

This year's theme is Walking in Freedom, taken from Psalm 119:45: "I will walk about in freedom, for I have sought out your precepts" (NIV). As you navigate the Exhibit Hall, select workshops, and fellowship with like-minded families, remember what a privilege and blessing it is to homeschool your children freely, without government interference. This freedom isn't always guaranteed, and we remain in a constant battle to preserve this liberty for generations to come. We encourage you not to take this freedom for granted.

Walking in freedom is a direct result of seeking God's precepts—His laws and His Word. You will walk in freedom when you diligently seek the Lord and His Word for direction on homeschooling, parenting, and family life! True freedom comes from being obedient to God and His Word. Modeling this for your children is one of the most important aspects of your homeschool journey. The time passes quickly. Whether you're just beginning or graduating your last student, make every moment count. Be good stewards of the time the Lord has given you to raise your children, remembering that you aren't just raising children but future adults! I heard a quote a few months ago that really resonated with me, "When you teach your children, you are teaching your children's children." You aren't just "homeschooling;" you are creating a legacy!

If this is your first time attending, we understand it can be overwhelming—please know we are here to help! Visit the Information Booth with any questions or plan a time to talk with one of our Homeschool Consultants. These experienced homeschool moms and dads have successfully navigated the homeschool journey and are eager to share their knowledge with you and encourage you.

Did you know CHEA is more than just a convention? We are here for you year-round! CHEA is a statewide organization that has been serving homeschool families since 1982. Our sole purpose is to support you on your homeschool journey as you raise and disciple your children. You can connect with us through our website, by calling or emailing our office, on social media, or by reaching out to our educational consultant. Please see below for all the ways you can connect with us 365 days a year!

As you see CHEA staff members, board members, or regional advisory board members, please say "Hi!" We would love to meet you personally, talk with you, pray with you—we are here for whatever you need.

Enjoy your weekend, make a new friend, and remember you were called for such a time as this. Walk in freedom and seek God's Word for direction on your homeschool journey.

In Christ's Service,

$75 for both days

The theme of the teen convention program is "Live Deliberately". Teens will also have the opportunity to use some of those leadership skills they're learning in practical ways.

Everyone participating will get their own TLC t-shirt to wear throughout the Convention. Teens who register will be divided into two groups. One group will serve in the morning and attend the special teen sessions in the afternoon, and the second group will attend the special teen sessions in the morning and serve in the afternoon. Many families and teens alike love this program.

We also have some additional service opportunities on Thursday afternoon and Saturday evening.

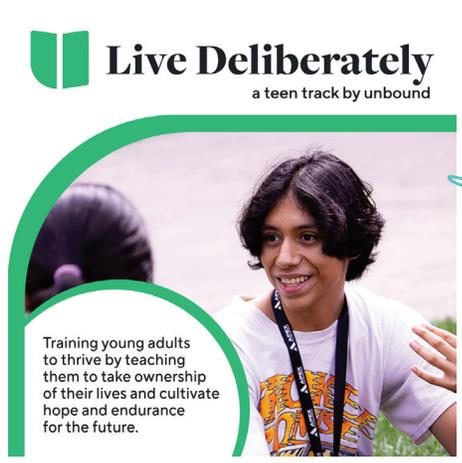

All participants will receive a certificate for the total number of hours they serve throughout the Convention, including any additional hours they contribute. Great for high school transcripts and college and job applications.

Teen Leadership Core is an experience like no other. Your teen will love it!

Teen Convention Guidelines

Only teens (ages 12-18) registered for the Teen Convention are permitted in the teen workshops. At other times of the day, teens may attend sessions and visit the Exhibit Hall. CHEA will provide volunteer adult chaperones for the Teen Convention; however parents are responsible for their teen's safety and behavior during the Convention. We recommend that parents and teens read over the Convention materials together and arrange meeting times and locations. In consideration of all in attendance, we request teens follow these basic guidelines:

- Wear modest, casual clothing.
- Remain seated during the sessions.
- Do not loiter outside the rooms during sessions.
- Be attentive to the speaker.
- Turn cell phones to vibrate. If you need to use your phone, please step outside.

Training young adults to thrive by teaching them to take ownership of their lives and cultivate hope and endurance for the future.

PARA LA COMUNIDAD HISPANA DE EDUCACIÓN EN EL HOGAR

¿Quieres, o estás actualmente, educando en el hogar? Este año podemos ofrecer interpretación simultánea en español para nuestra Mini-Conferencia gratuita de introducción de Educación en el Hogar que sera el jueves por la noche. También estará disponible durante el resto de la Conferencia de Crianza y Educación en el Hogar de CHEA para las charlas impartidas por nuestras oradoras de las sesiones de apertura y algunas otras sesiones también. Tendremos tiempo en nuestra mesa de ayuda de educación en el hogar donde también podrá obtener respuestas a sus preguntas en español individualmente con padres veteranos que educan en el hogar.

Do you want to—or are you currently—homeschooling? This year we are able to offer simultaneous translation in Spanish for our Free Thursday night Intro to Homeschooling Mini-Con. We will also have it available during the rest of CHEA Parenting and Homeschooling Conference for talks given by our keynote speakers and some other sessions. We will have times in our Homeschool Help booth when you can get your questions answered in Spanish one-on-one with veteran homeschool parents as well.

LIFE AFTER HIGH SCHOOL MINI-CON

Thursday, May 15 | 2:00 - 9:00 p.m.

SUB Courtyard/Crowell Hall/Pavilion (Exhibit Hall)

Parents and their teens are invited to attend this FREE, fun, informative evening on navigating high school and beyond. There are many different pathways open to homeschooled students after high school, and our goal is to give you an overview of several of them.

Our desire is to show parents that not only is it possible to homeschool through high school, but you can be successful and prepare your student for whatever God may have for him or her after graduation, including college. Teens are encouraged to come to learn more about the possibilities as well as the college admissions process.

NEW THIS YEAR! The College & Vocational Fair is a free event in the afternoon before the sessions begin. It will feature representatives from many vocational schools and colleges and universities who will be happy to meet you, give you literature about their particular school, and answer your individual questions.

This entire event is FREE and open to the public, though registration is required.

Dr. Renton Rathbun
Featured Speaker

Renton is an engaging speaker on biblical worldview and apologetics. Having taught at both secular and Christian universities for over two decades, he relates to parents and students well. He and his wife homeschooled their oldest son and are now homeschooling their two littles. Renton has spoken for many homeschool venues, as well as several podcasts, all across the nation. He holds five postgraduate degrees, including a PhD in apologetics from Westminster Theological Seminary. He is presently the director of the Center for Biblical Worldview in Greenville, SC.

Pastor Art Reyes
Featured Speaker

Pastor Art Reyes is the Senior Pastor at Calvary Chapel Downey. He has a passion for the exposition of God's Word and a desire to see lives transformed because of it. He strongly believes that home education is an excellent way to train up the next generation. He serves the Lord joined by his wife, Briana, and their three children whom they currently homeschool, Caleb, Micah, and Moriah.

Rachel Zwayne
Featured Speaker

Rachel was born and raised in New Zealand. At the age of 14, her father's ministry (Ray Comfort / Living Waters) relocated to Southern California, where she eventually met her husband and became the mother of five children. She finds great delight in encouraging other women in their role as mothers, wives, and homeschoolers by speaking at conferences and retreats, as well as through her online ministry, "Joyful Mothers." Rachel and her husband live in Southern California and are now enjoying being grandparents.

Carrie De Francisco

Carrie De Francisco is a wife and "retired" homeschooling mom of two homeschool graduates. She is the host of the popular podcast, Coffee with Carrie Homeschool Help, speaker, and author of several books, including Just Breathe (and Take a Sip of Coffee): Homeschool in Step with God. Through her consulting services, books, blog, and podcast, she helps moms simplify their homeschooling one step at a time, one day at a time, and one cup of coffee at a time.

Jodi DiPaola

Jodi is a veteran homeschool mom of four. She began her homeschooling career because she has a passion for letting kids just be kids, exploring their interests and passions through natural discovery and free from unnecessary burdens. They live on a ranch in Southern California. She is also an avid fan of Lord of the Rings and The Hobbit and agrees with Bilbo Baggins that, "It is no bad thing to celebrate a simple life."

Dr. Lisa Dunne

Dr. Lisa Dunne is a dynamic author, speaker, lifelong homeschooler, and the founder of Chula Vista Christian University, a mentor-driven, faith-based, debt-free model of higher education. She is passionate about the transformative power of education, the primacy of the local church, and the stable family as the cornerstone of healthy culture. As an expert in Gen Z educational methodology and psychosocial development, she helps pastors and parents partner together to launch church-based academic support centers. Learn more at CVCU.us.

Dr. Douglas Frank

Dr. Douglas G. Frank is a world-renowned physicist and Nobel Prize nominee in chemistry. He has done extensive consulting, inventing, and technical manufacturing. He helped establish a special school for extraordinarily gifted youngsters in Ohio and served as the Math & Science department chair for twenty years. Dr. Frank is widely known for his informative and engaging presentations on a wide range of topics, including the complementary relationship between science and faith.

Dr. Julie Goodman-Bowling

Dr. Julie Goodman-Bowling serves as Professor of Anthropology at California Baptist University, is an author, and passionate speaker. For nearly 17 years, she has inspired, instructed, and mentored students in the areas of culture, culture change, and identity formation from an anthropological and distinctly Biblical perspective. As a wife and homeschooling mama of three amazing little ones, she encompasses family, ministry, and work - engaging life in layers.

Dr. Christy Mathews

Dr. Christy Mathews fondly recalls being homeschooled and attending CHEA Conventions with her mother throughout the 90s. Homeschooling served her creative and entrepreneurial streaks well. She has built a career in Christian higher education, and as an adult entrepreneur, she co-founded Hildegard College in Costa Mesa and started a consulting business for education and coaching entities. Dr. Mathews lives in Upland with her family, enjoys outdoor adventures, and serves as a deacon in her local church.

OUR BASIC FREEDOMS ARE AT
G R E A T R I S K

Our mission is to defend the freedom of parents to train, educate, and care for their children privately, without governmental interference, working to detect, analyze, monitor, and intervene in all legislation affecting the legality of private home education in California since 1986.

Each year, new bills threatening private home education, private schools, and parental rights are introduced. Some of the dangerous proposals that have been stopped by FPM include mandatory home inspections for all privately homeschooling families, loss of parental authority over curriculum choices, criminalizing homeschooling, defining educational neglect and truancy as child abuse (which could have been used against homeschoolers), statewide daytime curfews, mandatory government home visits of all infants and toddlers, and mandatory psychiatric examinations for all citizens every three years.

Our Duties

- Analyzing every bill introduced in the legislature and tracking dozens of bills every year
- Evaluating legislation through a Biblical/Christian worldview
- Building positive relationships with legislators and education officials
- Advocating for or against specific legislation

In order to continue to serve you by defending the educational and parental freedoms of home educators, FPM needs your financial support. FPM is 100% dependent upon home educators' regular financial support for salary and expense needs. Please be a part of our team. Your help is needed now!

John McGowan

John is an attorney with a litigation practice in Los Angeles and is also an allied attorney with Alliance Defending Freedom, the world's largest legal organization committed to protecting religious freedom and parental rights. He and his wife are homeschooling their two teenage boys. John is especially passionate about CHEA's mission to protect the God-given right of parents to direct the education and training of their children, and he serves as Vice President of CHEA's Board of Directors.

Betsy Pierce

Betsy is a second-generation homeschooling mom of eight, ages 3 to 18, and considers herself blessed beyond measure. She and her husband met at The Master's University and moved to Placer County in 2004, when Nathan began working at FPM. She has served the homeschooling community for years at various levels, graduated her oldest child, and loves to encourage and be encouraged by other moms as we all walk the road of education and discipleship through homeschooling.

Nathan Pierce

Nathan began working at Family Protection Ministries (FPM) in 2002 to protect private homeschooling in California. He is a homeschool graduate himself and received a B.A. in Political Studies from The Master's University. Currently he serves as Executive Director and Legislative Liaison for FPM and on the CHEA Board of Directors. He works behind the scenes at the State Capitol, meeting with legislators to advocate on behalf of homeschoolers. He and his wife homeschool their own eight children.

David and Shirley Quine

God has given David and Shirley a shared life, passion, and ministry. Their passion is to equip the next generation to "stand firm" in Christ in the 21st century. Together, they created Cornerstone Curriculum, a homeschool curriculum that assists parents in discipling their children. David has a master's degree in curriculum and instruction design, and Shirley is an early childhood education specialist. The Lord has given them the blessing of 50+ years of marriage, nine wonderful children, and sixteen grandchildren.

Penny Ross

Penny taught her own three children at home from birth through high school graduation. She led a PSP at her church and now runs Tools for the Home

Educator, an independent consulting business. She offers encouragement, support, and training through consultations, coaching, webinars, and workshops. Her specialty is helping families clarify their homeschooling goals and assisting them in mapping a pathway to success. Penny is married to her college sweetheart, and together they delight in seven grandchildren.

Caleb Schroeder

Caleb Schroeder is a California pastor, homeschool graduate, and speaker who holds two Master's degrees in Math Education and Biblical Studies. He was a public educator for 18 years before becoming a Senior Pastor. As an educator, homeschool graduate, and homeschool dad of six, he has a passion for home education and discipleship. He is a popular keynote and homeschool practicum speaker. He was also a cast member in the documentary, Schoolhouse Rocked: The Homeschool Revolution.

Because Homeschooling Doesn't Have to Look the Same Every Day.

Abeka's flexible options, like self-paced video lessons and comprehensive resources, make it easy to homeschool your way—anywhere, anytime.

"Some days we stick to a schedule, and other days we take the classroom outside. With Abeka, we can do both—and still stay on track."

Leah Schroeder

Leah Schroeder is a product of a homeschool education. She went on to receive a degree in Liberal Studies-Teacher Education from The Master's University.

She has been married to Caleb for 21 years, and they have six children, one of whom is a homeschool graduate. She and her husband serve at Faith Community Church of Palmdale, where they met. She loves encouraging mothers to endure through the challenges and delights of homeschooling, to the glory of God!

Vicki Stormoen

Vicki has been privately homeschooling since 1994. She and her husband have nine children, seven of whom have graduated from Heritage Christian School, a Southern California PSP. She is still homeschooling her remaining two children through HCS, where she currently serves as principal. Vicki also teaches homeschool literature and writing classes and was a Classical Conversations tutor. She is passionate about the vision of private Christian homeschooling as a means to raise a godly generation.

John Paul Thurai

With experience in both teaching and teacher development, John Paul has taught a wide range of subjects across both the Humanities and STEM. He also brings over a decade of experience in coaching youth sports. JP holds an M.A. in Humanities and Classical Education and now works with Classic Learning Test, helping parents determine what constitutes meaningful assessments for their children. JP and his wife homeschool their six kids (three school-aged) in Santa Paula.

Brian Villanueva

After graduating college, Brian Villanueva spent 10 years as a software engineer before starting a family.

He and his wife have homeschooled their 3 daughters from day 1: the oldest is in college and the other 2 are close. Brian now teaches civics, philosophy, and robotics at their Christian homeschool co-op and uses his IT background to help other families navigate technology effectively and safely. He and his wife just celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

Julie Walker

Julie Walker was a schoolteacher and homeschool leader for many years. She and her husband home educated their three sons. After their youngest son graduated, she returned to school, completing her MBA at Biola University. In 2007 Julie began working with IEW, where she has produced, directed, and helped to write many IEW video-based programs, including the Structure and Style® for Students video courses. She currently hosts the Arts of Language podcast with Andrew Pudewa.

THURSDAY, MAY 15

NUTS & BOLTS MINI-CON

2:00 - 2:45 p.m.

Laying a Foundation

Penny Ross, Mayers Auditorium

What shapes your education vision? What matters most to you as a parent and a teacher? The more that you think through why you are homeschooling, the better you can establish some guiding principles for your journey. Those principles will help you make important homeschooling decisions both now and in the future, as well as lay the groundwork for writing a Philosophy of Education or Mission Statement. (If those terms sound intimidating, then this is the workshop for you!)

2:45 - 3:30 p.m.

Essential Recordkeeping for the Private Homeschooler

Betsy Pierce, Mayers Auditorium

Benjamin Franklin forgot paperwork when he declared death and taxes to be the only certainties in life. But you don't need to be afraid of drowning in documents. Betsy has kept her school records for thirteen years and will walk you through the mandated records we are required to maintain as private homeschoolers and briefly touch on a few popular methods for lesson planning and keeping track of your child's learning.

3:30 - 4:20 p.m.

Choosing Curriculum - & Not Breaking the Bank!

Kristi Clover, Mayers Auditorium

Discover how to confidently choose the right homeschool materials—without draining your bank account! With so many options, it's easy to feel overwhelmed. You'll learn a simple approach to picking curriculum that fits your family's unique learning and teaching styles, budget, and interests. We'll also explore creative ways to homeschool without formal curriculum, using real-life resources and flexible tools that keep things simple and affordable. Walk away with a clear strategy, fresh ideas, and confidence to teach your children with joy and peace.

INTRO TO HOMESCHOOLING
MINI-CON

4:30 - 5:30 p.m.

Delivering Truth. Combatting Error.

Pastor Jack Hibbs, Mayers Auditorium

Parents often wonder if they're equipped to guide their children's education. This workshop reveals how home education provides a unique opportunity to ground your children in biblical truth while helping them discern cultural messages that contradict Scripture. Discover practical approaches to create a learning environment centered on God's Word, and gain confidence that with His guidance, you are fully capable of leading your children's educational journey.

5:30 - 7:00 p.m.

Intro to Home Education

Angela Lasch, John McGowan, Nathan Pierce,
Mayers Auditorium

Making the decision to educate at home is only the first of many decisions. This session lists the options, defines them, and offers criteria for deciding which one is right for your family. This is the perfect opportunity to investigate home education with no cost or obligation.

7:00 - 9:00 p.m.

Exhibit Hall Preview Pavilion (Exhibit Hall)

The Success Crisis: Why Misunderstanding Success is Destroying our Young Adults
Jonathan Brush, Crowell Hall

Many love to beat on the current young generation for their lack of work ethic and say they will never be "successful." What if learning to thrive - defined as owning your purpose, serving others through healthy relationships, and living with resilience - was far more important than becoming successful - defined as being rich, famous, and/or powerful? What if becoming successful actually runs directly against what is necessary to thrive? What would we need to understand and do to equip our children to thrive instead of be successful?

5:30 - 7:00 p.m.

Is Your Student College Bound?

Penny Ross, Crowell Hall

If you think your student might be headed to college, this workshop will provide an introduction and overview to the process. We will discuss the basics of higher education including the different types of schools (community college, UC, CSU, private college, Christian college, Bible college, and vocational school), admissions guidelines for homeschoolers, and a short primer on financial aid.

7:00 - 9:00 p.m.

WORKSHOP SESSION #1

10:30 - 11:30 a.m.

The Profound Impact of a Mother's Influence

Rachel Zwayne, Ethel Lee Auditorium

The influence that a mother can have over her children is profound. Homeschooling provides even more opportunities for her to impact the lives of the precious souls God has entrusted into her care. Rachel will explore specific areas of focus and highlight how intentionality can translate into massive effectiveness. You will learn how to inspire your children to love and serve the Lord and others with every fiber of their being.

A Customized Education

Penny Ross, Calvary Chapel

Homeschool parents do not need to teach every subject themselves. How do you determine which subjects would be best taught by you at home and which ones could (or should) be outsourced? And how do you determine the pro's and con's of a group class, tutor, co-op, online class, or video program for a particular subject or situation? Penny will help you sort through all these questions to determine what's right for your family.

Relational Living, Learning, and Loving

Amber O'Neal Johnston, Ethel Lee Auditorium

Interacting with living books, things, and people. Learning amid the mundane. Loving our family, friends, and community well. These are the relational aspects of home that fuel growth and contentment. Home education blurs the lines between home and "school" and offers a unique opportunity for connection with and among our children. When we approach our days as opportunities for relationships to flourish (and be tested), we're able to experience the fullness of educating our children at home. This session will guide parents in curating a home atmosphere rooted in relational living, learning, and loving.

Homeschooling Gen Z: How They Think & Why It Matters

Dr. Renton Rathbun, Mayers Auditorium

Young people continue to consent to and even affirm culturally acceptable sin. Sometimes we think, "My kids will never get tangled up in that." But do we understand enough to know how to protect them? We will discover the root of the thought process that has groomed Gen Z into doubting God, redefining Christianity, and ultimately walking away from the faith. We discuss three biblical principles to respond with as we educate, train, and prepare this generation for a world that hates God.

Climate Change: How Your Communication Climate Impacts Your Child's Success

Dr. Lisa Dunne, Crowell Hall

What seeds of discontent from your own childhood are bearing a harvest in your home? In The Secret Garden, author Frances Hodgson Burnett tells the story of a young orphan and her cousin. Raised without godly discipline and steeped in narratives of unforgiveness, both children ultimately make peace with their past, allowing hope to enter their hearts and love to enter their lives. The power of forgiveness sets them free from a life of bondage. Don't let your past determine your children's future.

Precious Preschool - Loving the Littlest Learning Years

Betsy Pierce, Kim Conference Room

Congratulations! You have a precious preschooler and you have decided homeschooling is the direction for your family! Whether you are excited and eager, overwhelmed by the enormity of the road ahead, or just want some ideas of how to begin with a good foundation, this session will help. Betsy will lay out a vision of a fun and doable approach to teaching the littlest learners, and encourage you to look with joy on this season of school.

Biblical Worldview of Education Is Vital

Roger Wheelock, Lehman Conference Room

Carefully crafted, wicked ideas are attacking us from all sides and our children will fall if not fully equipped to discern God's truth from the enemy's propaganda. Beginning in the home and church, our families must learn to see the world through the eyes of God, and to understand the times we're in. This presentation will prepare you with the tools you need to not merely survive, but to thrive in our tumultuous culture.

Rebuilding Western Civilization: A Call to a Bigger Vision

Jonathan Brush, Ethel Lee Auditorium

What if the homeschool movement was about more than education, but was the training corps for those whose mission is to take and hold the cultural anchors of our civilization? What if we understood that this army doesn't build walls and fortifications to keep the barbarians out, but builds homes and communities that lower the bridge, open the gates, and invites those outside in, to a better world? This session will challenge you to think big, think long, and join the mission.

What Should a Bible Program Look Like When We Homeschool?

Dr. Renton Rathbun, Calvary Chapel

Although many homeschool in order to teach their children from a biblical perspective, surprisingly, many homeschoolers are not engaging the Bible with the same rigor and attention as they do other subjects. This presentation demonstrates that all these issues can be overcome when we develop an intentional, biblical worldview of Bible curriculum, in its scope, relevance, and rigor.

Homeschooling for FREE (Well ... Almost Free)

Carrie De Francisco, Mayers Auditorium

Carrie shares how to teach PreK-4th grade for free (or for almost free), keep God and His Word at the center of your studies, protect your child's childhood from academic overload, and more. This session will help you keep the WONDER years WONDERful, and on a budget! If you are a parent of a PreK-4th grade student, a family on a strict budget, or a homeschool mom wanting to simplify her schedule, this workshop is for you.

Homeschooling is Discipleship

Caleb Schroeder, Crowell Hall

How is each dad uniquely equipped as the spiritual leader of his family? What are the unique roles that God has given parents to fulfill as they bring up children "In the way they should go?" How does this work for single parents? Practical advice for discipling children at all stages will be given. This seminar will also answer the question: "How can I disciple my children when I don't have a Bible degree?"

High School—The Final Lap

David & Shirley Quine, Kim Conference Room

In the Book of Hebrews, we are challenged to "run with endurance the race that is set before us ..." Running a race is difficult. In many ways, homeschooling is like a race in which we pass the baton of Truth to the next generation. High school is the final lap. Be encouraged as David and Shirley share insight from the Word of God on how to finish strong!

Her desire is to put wind in your sails and free you up to truly enjoy all the amazing benefits of education at home. Come and be encouraged towards trusting the Lord as well as implementing wise and practical tips. You are sure to come away with an excited heart!

Sparking Curiosity & Delight in Childhood

Amber O'Neal Johnston, Calvary Chapel
When children show strong abilities in one area or another, the adults in their lives often encourage them to pursue hobbies and careers that play off those strengths. That may certainly be an advantage, but sometimes the strategy can leave children feeling incomplete. We'll explore a path that supports academic growth while sparking curiosity in childhood. Learn how to spread an inspiring feast of ideas and come alongside your kids as they dive deeply into the passions and interests that make them come alive!

Homeschooling with Dyslexia: It's a Gift

Carrie De Francisco, Mayers Auditorium
Did your child have a terrible, horrible, no good, very bad (homeschooling) day ... again? Whether your child is dyslexic, has attention issues, or is just a late bloomer, homeschooling parents often feel inadequate. Dyslexia is not a deficiency; it is a gift. Kids with dyslexia learn differently, so they need to be taught differently. Carrie shares the struggles, challenges, triumphs, and miracles she experienced homeschooling her dyslexic child, as well as possible teaching strategies.

Raising Our Children to be Discerning in a World of Error

Nathan Pierce, Crowell Hall

With eight children in their home, Nathan and his wife do a lot of explaining about what is going on in the world. It can be tempting to give short answers, but doing so shirks our responsibility to train our children in discernment. Studying and growing in discernment is something that we need to model for our children as well as mentor them in. How can we do this in a world that is so confusing?

Homeschooling With Multiple Ages

Betsy Pierce, Kim Conference Room

How do you teach high school when the baby needs to eat, the toddler needs a nap, and the 8-year-old slips outside the moment your back is turned? It would be easy to teach multiplication if only you could focus for 10 minutes! As a mother of a large family, Betsy will share her experiences, successes, and failures of homeschooling multiple ages at the same time, including practical ideas for scheduling, household management, and curriculum approaches.

Navigating Changing Relationships through College

Dr. Julie Goodman-Bowling,

Lehman Conference Room

Becoming an adult changes one's relationships with their parents, church, and friends. Additionally, learning how to communicate with maturity, especially with professors and potential employers, is a critical part of establishing dependable relationships. In this discussion, we explore some helpful tools to guide students in how to navigate their new-found independence, establishing church relationships, and navigating changing relationships as distance and life-stage affect how students engage with parents and friends.

Writing Across the Curriculum

Julie Walker, Rose 002

Imagine integrating writing instruction into your Bible, history, or science lessons, helping your students become better writers while deepening their understanding of the subject matter. This is not only possible; it is highly effective! Writing about a subject solidifies the content, making it an ideal teaching strategy. Learn a systematic approach to help you incorporate writing into nearly any content area.

WORKSHOP SESSION #4

5:00 – 6:00 p.m.

The Importance of Taking Action & Doing Real Things

Jonathan Brush, Ethel Lee Auditorium

In a bygone time, plans were paramount, caution was king, and deciding was marked by deliberation. In that world, knowledge trumped experience. We don't live in that world anymore. In our world, iteration is better than planning, action holds the throne, and deciding is marked by doing. Knowledge is still necessary, but knowledge without experience holds little value. This session will teach you how to adapt to this new world and use project-based education to train students to take action for the real world.

What Kind of Homeschooler Are You?

Betsy Pierce, Mayers Auditorium

There are as many different approaches to homeschooling as there are families wondering what all the fancy terms mean. Who is this woman Charlotte Mason? How can education be classical? In this session, Betsy will give an overview of some of the most popular approaches to homeschooling. This will help parents get a feel for what method might be a good fit for their family and help direct curriculum choices and priorities.

Homeschool Fatigue

Caleb & Leah Schroeder, Crowell Hall

How do you keep going when it seems like you are going nowhere? In this workshop, Caleb & Leah will talk about maintaining endurance through all the various stages of child development from infant to teen and will emphasize both practical and spiritual implications.

Making Your Homeschool Days Special with Traditions & Fun!

Kristi Clover, Kim Conference Room

Homeschooling is more than lesson plans—it's the beautiful, messy, memory-making moments in between. We all know the pressure of trying to "keep up" with academics, but homeschooling is about more than just lessons—it's about family culture. If you want to add more joy and creativity to your homeschool, I'll share practical and simple ways to create lasting traditions that make your homeschool days meaningful, faith-filled, and fun. You'll walk away with easy-to-implement ideas your kids will beg to do again.

How to Pay for a Christian College

John Paul Thurau, Lehman Conference Room

This workshop explores ways to make the private college experience affordable. Topics will include the college search process, how to maximize institutional scholarships, and how to find outside scholarships. The discussion will also include an introduction to the financial aid process, along with real talk about expenses, long-term financial considerations, and critical questions to ask.

Bringing Together Great Masterpieces of Art & Biblical Truth

David & Shirley Quine, Rose 002

Great art has endured over time due to the artists placing Biblical truth onto their canvas. Through the study of art, we can see God's majesty and the beauty of His creation. In a similar way to great literature, art masterworks can take us on a journey to significant historical places and times where they come to life and leave lasting impressions upon our memories. However, the visual nature of art inspires and teaches us in ways that words alone cannot.

Beyond Textbooks: The Discipleship Journey of Home Education

Pastor Art Reyes, Ethel Lee Auditorium

In a world that seems increasingly hostile to biblical values, how can families make a lasting difference? Your dedication to raising your children in the fear and knowledge of the Lord is a light in today's world. In your homes, you are shaping not just minds, but hearts for God's kingdom. This keynote will inspire and affirm your God-given mission as you stand firm in biblical truth.

WORKSHOP SESSION #5

10:30 - 11:30 a.m.

Legislative Update

Nathan Pierce and John McGowan, Ethel Lee Auditorium

Fresh from the battlefield, Nathan and John will update you on major current legislative battles threatening our private home education and parental rights! You will learn how God has been working through FPM & CHEA this year and see the necessity of maintaining vigilance for battles that are on the horizon. As time permits, this perspective will broaden to the underlying worldviews and trends of our culture's war against the God-ordained family.

Books as Mirrors, Windows, and Sliding Glass Doors

Amber O'Neal Johnston, Calvary Chapel

When children lack occasions to examine similarities and differences between themselves and others, they miss out on valuable opportunities for recognizing the shared humanity that binds all people together. A mirror is a story that reflects your own culture and helps build your identity, a window is a resource that offers you a view into someone else's experience, and a sliding glass door invites you to enter another's world. We will examine the use of all three types of books in our homes as we educate our children.

Math—According to Abbot & Costello

David & Shirley Quine, Mayers Auditorium

While practice may make perfect, learn from Abbot and Costello why practice doesn't make understanding! Although a child may get every problem on a math page correct, that does not ensure he or she has any idea of what it means. Learn from David how to instill meaning into each math lesson.

Homeschool Models that Heal GenZ Misattachments

Dr. Lisa Dunne, Crowell Hall

Today's students are known as the most anxious, depressed, suicide-ideation-prone generation in U.S. history. What can we do to turn the tide? Through her work in universities over the last 20 years, Dr. Dunne has honed an educational methodology that helps inspire trust, build relational connectedness, and nurture critical-thinking skills. You will find practical ways to add these strategic elements of hope and healing to your homeschool. Get a free copy of Dr. Lisa's book, Guide on the Side, when you attend this workshop!

Navigating Working Outside the Home While Homeschooling

Dr. Julie Goodman-Bowling,

Kim Conference Room

My colleague Yvonne Thai (homeschool mama, author, and teacher) and I may offer some wisdom from our experiences as being full-time working mamas and homeschoolers. We address how we prioritize, organize, and balance our callings - a primary calling (wife and mother) and secondary calling (teaching). We'll share how rewarding both experiences are, but also how the danger of immediate gratification from work can be tempting; homeschooling and investing in my family is for the long-term ... and results take time.

workshops

To Test or Not to Test? That is the Question!John Paul Thurau, Lehman Conference Room

Testing does not need to be an anxiety-ridden experience. How can you utilize assessments in an edifying way and benefit tangibly from the results? This workshop will address questions related to testing and assessments, their benefits and limitations, and how to use them in your homeschool. The impact and prevalence of testing in society will be considered, along with common terms related to testing and college admissions.

How to Become (or Raise) a Redemptive EntrepreneurDr. Christy Mathews, Rose 002

Dr. Mathews will share pathways for becoming a Christ-centered entrepreneur and will discuss lived experiences and insights from homeschool families pursuing entrepreneurial pathways.

WORKSHOP SESSION #6

2:00 – 3:00 p.m.

Delighting in the Early YearsAmber O'Neal Johnston, Ethel Lee Auditorium

At the end of the day, your goal is for your child to progress from sleeping on your couch to being an adult sleeping on their own couch. What does a student really need to learn between ages 16 and 22 to be ready for "real life"? Many focus on academics, but you need more than academic ability to be equipped for adulthood. This session is based on over 20 years of watching young adults launch and carefully observing what does and doesn't work.

What You Really Need to Know: What Students Should Learn Before They LaunchJonathan Brush, Calvary Chapel

Although many homeschool in order to teach their children from a biblical perspective, surprisingly, many homeschoolers are not engaging the Bible with the same rigor and attention as they do other subjects. This presentation demonstrates that all these issues can be overcome when we develop an intentional, biblical worldview of Bible curriculum, in its scope, relevance, and rigor.

What's Influencing Your Parenting as a Mom?Rachel Zwayne, Mayers Auditorium

Being aware of what influences our parenting is extremely important. This message will touch on common influences—both positive and negative—that impact Christian mothers. Rachel will challenge us to evaluate where we turn for advice and if we're being unintentionally influenced by the wrong sources. She will seek to encourage us in the right direction so that we can experience confidence in our parenting.

The Four Language ArtsJulie Walker, Crowell Hall

When asked what the language arts are, many list numerous subjects: spelling, phonics, grammar, copywork, composition, etc. However, it's much simpler! For those adhering to the classical model, ascribing to a Charlotte Mason method, or just seeking a commonsense approach, language arts can be distilled into four core components: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Attending well to the first two eases the process of teaching the latter two. Learn to focus on the most important things in the limited time you have.

Homeschooling ... When Life IntervenesPenny Ross, Kim Conference Room

Don't fall into the trap of thinking a quality home education can only happen under ideal life circumstances. It is possible to homeschool while you provide care for a beloved family member or friend, deal with an ongoing illness yourself, lose your spouse to death or divorce, or undergo other major turmoil. We'll explore ways you can stretch and flex to meet the demands on your time and energy without shortchanging your children's education.

A Closer Look at Middle SchoolVicki Stormoen, Lehman Conference Room

The junior high years provide a unique two-year "gift" where parents can develop a two-fold vision for their students that involves both looking back at the elementary years and filling in any gaps, as well as intentionally preparing their students for the high school years ahead.

In this session, we will look at how to effectively accomplish both of those goals to set 7th and 8th grade students up for success in their final years of homeschooling.

Calling All Men! We Need a Better Definition for Servant LeadershipDr. Renton Rathbun, Rose 002

We need strong, reliable men, husbands, fathers. At the heart of Biblical leadership in the home is a hierarchy of a love for God. The higher the level of responsibility and the weight that accompanies decision making in the home, the greater the temptation is for men to either become like a child to their wife or become a bully in the home. We will discuss practical, biblical acts of headship in the home, and how to make a real difference in the next generation.

WORKSHOP SESSION #7

3:30 - 4:30 p.m.

Homeschooling for a Stronger MarriageCaleb & Leah Schroeder, Ethel Lee Auditorium

Oftentimes homeschool parents put their marriage on the back burner due to the hectic life of being a homeschool family. This session will focus on why a healthy marriage is the most important element of an effective education. It will offer practical advice for how to maintain a healthy marriage in the midst of the organized chaos of home education.

Principles Based Parenting: You Don't Need a Formula, You Need a FoundationJonathan Brush, Calvary Chapel

Ever notice everyone has a specific opinion about how you should, or shouldn't, raise your children? There's no magic formula to parenting, but there are principles, things that are true no matter what. If you understand those principles then, since we are made in the image of an infinitely creative God, there are an infinite number of ways you can teach your children those principles, reflecting your unique skills and family. This session will give you the foundation to build your own parenting plan.

Training Kids to Help (Without the Whining!)Kristi Clover, Mayers Auditorium

You weren't meant to carry the whole load alone—your kids can help (they might just need a little training). In this uplifting and practical session, you'll discover how to gently and consistently train your kids to take ownership of age-appropriate tasks. We'll explore strategies for building responsibility, cultivating a family team mindset, and handling pushback without turning into the drill sergeant. You'll walk away with fresh motivation and tools to create a more peaceful, cooperative home.

Technology from Toddlers to TeensBrian Villanueva, Crowell Hall

How do you safely introduce the web, smartphones, social media, and AI to your children? The Internet is an amazing tool with a very seedy underbelly. Learn how to use internet technology without having it use you. This workshop demonstrates web filtering and phone tracking tools to keep your kids and teens safe(r) online. Because today's online harms can migrate into the offline world.

Home Educating a High-Energy KidPenny Ross, Kim Conference Room

Do you have one of those kids who can barely sit still – even to eat? Then how is he or she supposed to learn to read, do long division, or write essays? We'll discuss practical tips and tools for working with kids who have an overabundance of energy and for incorporating movement into their daily learning routine.

Vital Need to Relate His-Story (History) to Today's World

Roger Wheelock, Lehman Conference Room
George Orwell said, "The most effective way to destroy a people is to deny and obliterate their understanding of their own history." French writer and communist supporter Milan Kundera wrote: "The first step in liquidating a people is to erase its memory." If we don't know our history, we won't know the context of our lives today, and we won't understand God's purpose for us in the future. Viewing history through God's eyes is unfathomably valuable and relevant for today.

Charter Schools - Opportunity or Hidden Stumbling Block?

Nathan Pierce, Rose 002
You probably know homeschooling families who have left the fold of Private Homeschooling for the perceived advantages of joining a charter school. Perhaps you yourself have even wondered if it wouldn't be a solution to some of the challenges you're facing. So, what are some of the important issues Christian parents should consider before making any decision to enroll their children in a charter school?

How to Create Thinking Habits in Our Children: Worldview Down to the Lesson Plan
Dr. Renton Rathbun, Ethel Lee Auditorium
Let's face it, biblical worldview has been ethereal for too long. If biblical worldview is to have any legitimacy, it must be practical. In this talk, we develop the lost art of reading, writing, and arithmetic in our teaching. We establish that every subject taught in the home involves these three skills. We then develop how Worldview work is at the heart of 1) organizational thinking in reading, 2) critical thinking in writing, and 3) conductive thinking in arithmetic.

- Zan Tyler will be the Featured Speaker at both of these events!
- Several workshops on a wide range of topics, for wherever you might be in your homeschooling journey.
- Moms and Dads Panels were so popular last year we'll be doing them again.
- Nathan Pierce will also be joining us.

Why should California homeschool groups join CHEA's Support Network?

CHEA's Support Network is a statewide network of Christian homeschool groups that work with families desiring to provide a godly education for their children at home. Partnering with CHEA strengthens your local group and the broader Christian homeschool community across California. Membership enhances your group's visibility by allowing you to promote homeschool events through our digital publications and social media channels and be listed in the Homeschool Directory on our website.

We invite you to give us your feedback about your experience this weekend. Please take a few moments to complete the convention survey you can find on our Convention Resources page by scanning the QR code here. These surveys help us to improve your convention experience. We appreciate you taking the time to fill one out, so everyone who does so by May 30th will be entered into a drawing for a FREE Full Access Family Registration for next year's Convention!

Audio or video recording of the Convention sessions is prohibited.

Convention workshops* will be recorded and available for purchase as MP3 downloads through CHEA's online bookstore at www.cheaofca.org/store.

Workshop sessions can be purchased individually or as a set that includes all available workshop sessions from the Convention.

*Please note that we DO NOT record exhibitor workshops.

BE A HOMESCHOOL HERO.

Helping families homeschool since 1982

The Christian Home Educators Association of California remains dedicated to empowering families on their homeschooling journey. Your financial partnership with CHEA enables us to provide essential homeschooling resources, enriching events, and supportive community connections for thousands of California families committed to teaching their children at home. Consider strengthening our shared mission by setting up a simple recurring donation. Your monthly support creates a lasting impact on Christian home education across California.

You can donate on our website at www.cheaofca.org/donate-now or by scanning the QR code. You can also call the CHEA office at 562-864-2432 or send a check to P.O. Box 1325, Santa Clarita, CA 91386.
